NYITRAY STARS DURING BG's 17-14 MIAMI WIN

"I would say that P. J. Nyitray has earned a starting assignment for today's game against Marshall," Bowling Green State University's football coach Bob Gibson stated.

The fact of the matter is that Nyitray's performance in last Saturday's 17-14 win over Miami may have earned Nyitray not only the starting job against the Thundering Herd but a spot in Bowling Green's all-time football history.

Going into the Miami contest, Nyitray, a sophomore, had appeared in only one Bowling Green game during the 1966 season as he fired an incomplete point-after-touchdown pass against Dayton.

However, Saturday, the facts were different as he completed 13 of 25 passes for 89 yards and one touchdown and then scored the game's winning touchdown on a quarterback sneak with 1:01 left in the contest. Nyitray's completion total was the best effort by a BG passer since Bob Colburn connected 13 times on Oct. 11, 1958.

But Nyitray wasn't the only hero in the Falcons' win that Gibson called "one of the sweetest victories we have had since I've been at Bowling Green."

With fullbacks Stew Williams and Charles Radich hurt, the Falcons were forced to convert halfback Ed Coletti, a 190-pound sophomore, into a fullback and he came through with 67 yards in 21 carries against the Redskins.

Coletti's performance was even more impressive because of the fact that he suffered a pulled groin muscle Thursday and Gibson wasn't sure he would play Saturday.

"If Coletti couldn't have played, the women and children would have been next," Gibson said as he joked about Bowling Green's injury situation that has left the Falcons very thin at some positions.

Against Marshall, Williams and guard Jack Sohn both figure to be sidelined but tackles Larry Smith and Tom Luettker plus Radich could be back in action.

Along with Nyitray and Coletti, another sophomore, Eddie Jones, had plenty to say about the Miami victory. He caught seven passes for 57 yards with two of the grabs coming during the winning TD drive.

This week's player nominations went to Nyitray as Bowling Green's "Mr. Back" and to Frank Harpold and Jamie Rivers as "Mr. Block" and "Mr. Tackle".

A hard fought victory over Miami is always important for the Falcons but last Saturday's was one of the finest during the 24-game series. It halted Miami's winning streak at 12 straight games, the longest in the nation, and knocked the Redskins out of the undefeated ranks.

Bowling Green's 17 points were the most scored against Miami this season and left the Falcons with a 3-0-1 record in their last four meetings at the Redskins' field.

MARSHALL, AT ONLY 1-6, COULD CAUSE TROUBLE

Marshall moves into today's game at Bowling Green with a 1-6 record and the Thundering Herd has lost six straight contests but last week, against league-leading Western Michigan, Marshall battled all the way until going down to a 35-29 defeat.

This gives today's fans just some idea of how dangerous the Herd can be if Bowling Green takes the West Virginia visitors lightly.

Marshall opened with a 27-20 victory over Morehead but then lost to Eastern Kentucky, 26-6, Toledo, 23-7, Quantico Marines, 10-7, Miami, 12-0, Louisville, 35-15, and Western Michigan 35-29.

Last week, Western led 35-7 at halftime but Marshall bounced back with six points in the third period and 16 more in the final quarter to make the game very close.

Marshall scored first as the Herd intercepted a pass. Fullback Andy Socha raced 47 yards to the four before Mickey Jackson scored the touchdown at 12:34 in the first quarter.

From there, it was all Western until quarterback Jim Torrence connected on a 25-yard pass to end Ken Simpson for Marshall's second TD. In the last quarter, Socha scored for the Herd before quarterback Jim Gilbert fired eight yards to Simpson for the final score.

Players like Jackson, Socha, Torrence, Simpson and Gilbert will be the players Bowling Green will have to watch today. Socha rushed for 131 yards against Western while Torrence and Gilbert connected on 13 of 24 passes for 151 yards and two touchdowns.

In seven games, Socha has rushed for 406 yards while Jackson has moved ahead for better than 300 yards. Jackson has also scored 44 points to pace the Herd in that category.

Last year, at Marshall, Bowling Green came up with a 20-6 victory that helped the Falcons tie for the Mid-American Conference crown. Tom Luettker scored on a one-yard run while Joe Souliere picked up six points on a 65-yard punt return. Jim Perry wrapped up the scoring with two field goals and two PAT boots.

Bowling Green goes into the game with an 11-1 series advantage. Marshall scored a 26-19 win in 1954 but the Thundering Herd hasn't been able to register a victory since that time. In the last nine games, Marshall has been able to score only 54 points.

BOWLING GREEN STACKS UP THE NATION'S BEST RECORD

In the past 10 years, Bowling Green State University's football teams have compiled a 77-12-4 record to become "the winningest team in the nation" and BG's winning trend doesn't figure to come to a halt in 1966.

Bowling Green's 77-12-4 record in the last decade has enabled the Falcons to win more games than any other squad in the nation, except Mississippi, and compile the highest percentage.

Doyt Perry stacked up a 70-10-4 mark in nine years before moving up to serve as Bowling Green's Athletic Director. Bob Gibson kept the streak going in 1965 with a 7-2 record.

During those 10 years, Bowling Green has annexed six Mid-American Conference titles while finishing second two times and also ending up third twice. None of the teams lost more than two games during any season.

With a total of 21 lettermen back from last year's team that tied for first place in the Mid-American, Bowling Green is again hoping for another outstanding season.

The record builders: Bob Gibson and Doyt Perry

Bowling Green State University's athletic trainer Al Sawdy is shown displaying the certificate he received when he was voted into the Helms Hall of Fame.

SAWDY SERVES THE FALCONS FOR 23 YEARS

Bowling Green State University's trainer Al Sawdy, who probably has used enough tape to stretch around the world, recently received one of the highest honors a man in his profession can get when he was voted into the Helms Hall of Fame.

Sawdy, now in his 23rd year as the Falcons' trainer, received the Helms Hall of Fame award and had his name inscribed upon the Athletic Trainers Hall of Fame trophy in Los Angeles, California.

But for Sawdy, training has been a lot more than just an award or a name on a trophy, it has been a case of aiding the thousands of athletes who have come to him for care.

Sawdy has been at Bowling Green for 23 years but he is now into his 37th year as an athletic trainer. His first position as an athletic trainer was at Fostoria High School from 1930-1941. He then served as the trainer with the Detroit Lions in 1942 and 1943 before spending a year at Belmont College, in Wisconsin.

In 1944, Sawdy came to Bowling Green. During his stay at Bowling Green, he was selected as the United States Olympic team trainer for the 1956 game in Melbourne and was the team trainer at the United States Pan American games in Chicago in 1959.

In 37 years, Sawdy has seen plenty of changes take place in the training profession. "The occupation, as a whole, is becoming more and more professional and some day you may have to be licensed in order to assume these responsibilities," he predicted.

"The biggest change I have noticed is that we are putting more and more emphasis on the prevention of injuries," Sawdy said. "I believe the majority of our time is spent on preventing injuries rather than taking care of them after they happen."

As examples of this type of preventive training, Sawdy pointed to the use of football mouth pieces and to taping of ankles before practice sessions.

"Probably our most serious injuries are unavoidable but they are handled much better today," Sawdy said. "Even at this, prevention is paying off."

A total of 23 years is a long time to serve any institution but Sawdy will be right down there on the field today with "his boys" as the Falcons tackle Marshall University.

Hats off to Al Sawdy, a true Hall of Famer.

W. H. Davis (left), Alcoa's General Manager—Industrial Relations, says: "We've found that Army ROTC graduates with active duty experience as officers possess better than average initiative, foresight, and responsibility. These are qualities we rate very highly, and we gladly pay a premium to get them."

Why did Alcoa hire Rod Wilson?

Because Alcoa needs men to fill key positions—men capable of moving to the top; men who seek and measure up to responsibility. Rod Wilson is that kind of man. An Army ROTC Distinguished Military Graduate at Colorado State University, Rod won an officer's commission in the Regular Army along with his degree. Forty-four months of active duty, including 16 months overseas as an artillery commander, earned Rod Wilson 24-carat credentials as a leader, a man schooled in the demanding disciplines of command, the kind of man Alcoa looks for.

If you're this kind of man, prove it to yourself, and to the companies like Alcoa who are looking for you. How? Get in Army ROTC. Stay with Army ROTC, all the way to success.

DAD TAKES A TRIP WITH BOWLING GREEN'S BAND

Bowling Green's featured twirler Becky Quick and drum major Tom Faranda will be leading Bowling Green State University's marching band as it performs for today's Dad's Day crowd.

Today, Bowling Green State University's marching band will help "Dad" spend a week in Europe.

The band will open its show by coming down the field in a jet formation and playing "Those Magnificent Men In Their Flying Machines". The first stop for Dad will be Spain where the band will take him to a bull fight. Trumpeter Richard Zunkiewicz will play the concert version of "La Virgen De La Macarena".

From there, it is on to Switzerland where the band and Dad will take a ride over the Alps in a cable car. The band will play "Sound of Music" and "DoRaMi" from the famous musical "The Sound of Music".

Before returning to Bowling Green, the band will stop at New York City and spend a night at the Radio City Music Hall. While drilling, the band will play "Manhattan" and "Lullaby of Broadway".

This year's Bowling Green Marching Band consists of 150 students. Of the 150, the usual complement of marchers is 120, with 26 alternates, 1 featured twirler, two majorettes, and drum major.

The band is directed by Mark Kelly, director of bands at Bowling Green State University. Assisting Mr. Kelly are Louis Marini and David Glasmire, School of Music staff personnel. Mr. Marini writes many of the special arrangements featured by the band, while Mr. Glasmire assists Mr. Kelly with the general format of the shows and does the announcing.

The breakdown of personnel includes: 96 music majors and 54 students from the other colleges of the University, 91 men and 59 women. Membership in the Falcon Marching Band is open to all who are interested in furthering their own music education aims or are desirous of participating in the thrill and pageantry evidenced each week in the band shows.

An intense interest in the musical training provided and the polished perfection on the field are incentives for many members. The band displays a variety show approach to their half-time performances. Light classics, Broadway musical comedy tunes, marches, hit tunes of the day—all play an important part in the repertoire of a season's literature.

The band makes use of field picture formations, concert numbers, and unique drills to establish proper continuity for any given theme which prevails in their weekly show.

BOWLING GREEN RAPIDLY EXPANDS ITS ATHLETIC FACILITIES

Bowling Green State University is currently undergoing the largest expansion in its history and part of the extensive building program is providing the university with some of the best athletic facilities in Ohio.

As Bowling Green launches its 1966 home football schedule on Oct. 1, the Falcons will be playing in the biggest and newest stadium in the Mid-American Conference.

Following a Bowling Green tradition, the Falcons' new home has been named Doyt L. Perry Field, honoring the university's athletic director.

The stadium will provide seating for 23,272 fans and will contain the latest in facilities and accommodations.

STADIUM FACILITIES

On the east side of the stadium will be dressing facilities plus training and equipment areas to handle all of Bowling Green's outdoor sports. On the east mezzanine floor, the stadium will have 30 offices and meeting rooms.

Four handball courts plus locker rooms and showers along with storage areas have been planned for the west side. Six classrooms will be situated on the west mezzanine floor. The press box, also slated for the west side, will have facilities for 70 people and will include 10 radio booths and two television areas.

If, in the future, the stadium needs to be expanded, completing the oval will add 20,900 additional seats. An upper deck on the stadium would make possible another 16,000 seats. Bowling Green's stadium, at total capacity, will seat over 60,000 people.

ICE ARENA

In addition to the stadium, construction is progressing very rapidly on the indoor ice arena that will be completed this year. The ice arena, with planned seating for 4,000 fans, will include a figure skating area, a sheet for hockey and recreation as well as one for curling.

Health and physical education classes will use the arena which will also be available for intramural groups, the general student body and the public when not being used by students.

Bowling Green's athletic construction doesn't stop with the stadium and ice arena as the university is also currently building one of the finest outdoor tracks in the country.

The track, which will be adjacent to the southeast corner of the new stadium, will be the first of its kind in this area. The nine lane, quarter-mile oval was surfaced last summer with a non-skid, all-weather plastic material, developed by the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. At the current time, Robert H. Whittaker track is only one of three in the world surfaced with this material.

The work has been completed on Bowling Green's new baseball diamond that has a seating capacity of 2,500.

With the addition of the stadium, ice arena, track and baseball diamond, Bowling Green will have outstanding athletic facilities that also include a nine-hole golf course, and tennis courts. All these facilities are on the eastern part of campus, beyond Yount Road.

BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY'S FALCON CLUB

"Perpetuating Bowling Green Athletic Tradition"

The Falcon Club provides the means for individuals to support Bowling Green State University's athletic program and encourage leadership and competitive qualities in those young men with academic and athletic abilities.

Bowling Green's Falcon Club is now in its third year. During its first year of existence, over 120 individuals joined the club while 300 joined during the 1965-66 academic year. Now, during 1966-67, the Falcon Club already has over 300 members and it's growing rapidly.

The membership fee is a minimum gift of $25.00 per year. Checks should be made payable to the Bowling Green State University Foundation, Inc. and designated for the Falcon Club.

All gifts provide direct support for the athletic program. In an effort to provide a well rounded athletic program at Bowling Green State University, the Falcon Club program encompasses all varsity sports.

What Are The Objectives

To encourage young men with academic, athletic, and leadership abilities to attend the University.

To assist in bringing these students to the campus.

To contribute to the athletic grant-in-aid program.

To assist in securing summer employment for these student athletes.

To promote Bowling Green's athletic teams and athletes whenever and wherever the opportunity arises.

What Are The Advantages To Members?

Falcon Club members are the backbone of Bowling Green's booster organizations and as such must receive their chief source of satisfaction from seeing the athletic program prosper. However, it is the University's aim to provide members with as many activities and privileges as are practical. The 1966-67 plans include the following:

- Reserved parking for football and basketball games.
- A decal and card signifying membership in the Falcon Club.
- Periodic newsletters during the athletic year.
- Copies of the Falcon Fact Books.
- Meet the Team Day—September 14, play nine holes of golf, watch an afternoon practice of the 1966 Falcon Footballers, followed by a picnic and the chance to meet the coaches and players.
- A post-Ohio University Game Falcon Club gathering November 12 at the Holiday Inn.
- Falcon Club luncheons throughout the athletic year.
- Falcon Club gathering following a selected basketball game.
- A listing of Falcon Club members in a football and basketball program.
- A Falcon Club tie tack for all first year members.

NETWORK AIRS BOWLING GREEN FOOTBALL

FALCON VOICE—WFOB's veteran broadcasting team of Gene Kinn and Dugan Fry, left and right, will handle the play-by-play on Bowling Green State University's five-station radio network this year.

For the second straight season, Bowling Green State University's football games will be aired by a five station radio network, station WFOB's vice president Mel Murray announced today.

WFOB, with facilities in both Bowling Green and Fostoria, will serve as the originating station for the network that also includes: WTOD, Toledo; WONW, Defiance; WBCO, Bucyrus, and WERT, Van Wert.

The network will give Bowling Green good radio coverage in northwestern Ohio. WFOB's veteran broadcasting team of Dugan Fry and Gene Kinn will handle the play-by-play for the network.

Fry and Kinn have done Bowling Green State University's football games for the past seven years and their coverage of BG's athletic events have taken them across the nation.

Fry worked at radio station WCLT, Newark, and WTTF, Tiffin, before coming to WFOB seven years ago. He is now the station's sports director. Kinn has been at WFOB for eight years and is currently program director.

Falcon home games will also be aired this season by WAWR, Bowling Green, and WBGU, the university's station.

Bowling Green opened its 1966 nine-game schedule on the road at the University of Tampa and WFOB was there. Fry and Kinn will also be on hand for the Falcons' final game at Temple University, in Philadelphia.

MEMORIES KEEP UNIVERSITY STADIUM "ALIVE"

University Stadium under construction in 1937

BY ANN CLARK
Publications Office

This fall, for the first time since 1914, the site of the old football field will not be used for athletics.

With construction of the new stadium, the old playing field will become a mall. Plans have been made for landscaping the old field while buildings will soon flank it.

From 1914 to 1922 the field served as an athletic practice field. The playing field was adjacent to the Ridge Street School after 1919, when Bowling Green first played intercollegiate football. In 1923 the old practice field was converted into the playing field, and bleachers were installed. The first game on the field was a disaster; Ohio Northern defeated Bowling Green 46-0.

The playing field was dedicated on Homecoming Day, November 10, 1923. According to the Bee Gee News, Vol. 5, No. 1:

... Following the parade there will be held the dedication of the new athletic field. The dedication address will be delivered by some important personage and will set apart a plot of ground which will be known as The College Field for all time to come.

At this hour, 2:30 p.m., the event of the day will take place when the Orange and Brown clash with Ashland. Coach R. B.

McCandless makes no rash promises as to the outcome of this battle but he promises that if fight and spirit can win, old Bee Gee is sure of a big victory.

The fight and spirit must have been there. Bowling Green defeated Ashland 10-0 on a touchdown by F. Gus Skibbie, Bowling Green's Mayor, plus a point after and field goal by Solon Hearick. The next issue of the Bee Gee News stated, "It was the most sensational game of football ever played on a local gridiron."

In 1937, a $44,300 stadium was built, and another dedication ceremony held. President Emeritus Homer B. Williams discussed the cost, capacity, and construction of the PWA project and then introduced Dr. Frank J. Prout, President of the Board of Trustees, who presented the stadium to President Offenhauer.

A total of 2,500 persons watched Bowling Green defeat Capital University 12-0 on touchdowns by Wayne Stewart and Dan Clingan. This was the second of 121 games to be played in the stadium. The first was several weeks earlier when Bowling Green defeated Hiram College 12-0 in a continuous drizzle. Wayne Stewart and Glen Mohler scored touchdowns. Dale Herbert, the university's director of athletic facilities and grounds, was the kickoff man that year.

That team was small by today's standards. The average player weighed 170.8 pounds; today the average is 204.5. In 1937 only two players weighed more than 200 pounds — George Madaras and James Zechman. Today more than half of the team weighs 200 pounds or more.

DRAMATIC STAGE

The College Field has provided a stage for many dramas.

In the first game after the dedication, Bowling Green lost to Ohio Northern 9-7 in one of the toughest games Mr. Herbert recalls. "The night before, Bowling Green students painted Ada red—literally—and then they sought and won revenge on the gridiron," he said.

In 1943, most of the team were students in the Navy V-12 program. On one weekend 28 players were shipped out — and there were still three games to play. The night before the Homecoming game with Alma, seven men showed up for practice. The next day eleven men reported, and the game proceeded. One player arrived in the last quarter. Some of the players were not members of the team as Bowling Green defeated Alma 24-0.

"That year we started and ended our season against Ohio Wesleyan," former coach R. H. Whittaker recalls. "Some of the Navy men who started the season playing for Bowling Green were transferred to Wesleyan, and then played against Bowling Green in the final game," he said.

248 GRIDMEN

Three years later, the problems had reversed — in this first post-war year 248 men suited up for football. "We tried to accept all who wanted to play—some uniforms were pretty scraggly," Coach Whittaker said. "That year the Cleveland Browns held their pre-season practice at Bowling Green. One day a freshman, Eddie Kuntz, a good tackle, showed up late for practice — he was confused and had been playing with the Browns."

One of the most exciting games Coach Whittaker remembers was against Kent in 1947. Kent was leading 18-7 with three and one-half minutes remaining in the game. Max Minnich passed from the Bowling Green 10-yard line to the Kent four, where the ball was run in for the Td. A few plays later virtually the same play was repeated. With Robert De Petro kicking the extra points, BG won 21-18.

"In 1945 we had problems with field maintenance, Coach Whittaker said. "The field was not well crowned and water would not run off properly. After the last game, dirt was piled onto the field to help alleviate this problem. The dirt lay there in piles all winter—in mid-April it was still there. In desperation, I threatened to play all our games away from home that fall. The next day maintenance crews were spreading the dirt."

The State of Ohio had two undefeated teams in 1948—John Carroll and Bowling Green. On Nov. 20, the last game of the season, the two teams battled to a 13-13 tie. Bob Schnelker, now a coach for the Green Bay Packers, played for the University that year.

FIRST MAC

In 1956 Bowling Green won its first MAC championship in football. In the first game the Falcons defeated Defiance 73-0 for the highest score in University Stadium. For a time it looked as though Bowling Green would lose out in the MAC. BG was behind 7-0 in the final quarter of the Miami game. Harold Peek blocked a Miami kick, grabbed the ball, and ran 40 yards for the touchdown. The score was 7-7.

On Oct. 29, 1960, Bowling Green played California Polytechnic, a team noted for its good passing. "We were expecting a hard game," former Coach Doyt L. Perry recalls. "But we won 50-6. And, of course, a few hours later the plane carrying them back to California crashed in Toledo, killing many of their team members.

"Visiting football teams usually arrive a few hours before the game, and our students have little or no contact with them. However, the Cal Poly players arrived on Thursday, mixed with our students in the Union, and dated our girls," Perry recalls.

"Bowling Green was one of the few colleges in the nation to play football on the day after President Kennedy's assassination. We felt that this was what the late President would have wanted," Perry said. Bowling Green defeated Xavier 26-15 that day.

SIX COACHES

Six Bowling Green coaches have fielded teams on this athletic area, McCandless, Warren E. Steller, Harry Ockerman, Whittaker, Perry and Robert M. Gibson.

The stadium has provided more than recreation for some — it has been a home for more than 1,000 alumni. In 1946 dormitory rooms were added under the stadium. In an average year, 55 men were housed in this Stadium Club, although once as many as 80 lived there. For the past two years only visiting teams have been quartered there.

Although the last game has been played there, it now provides a place where students stroll and chat. "It seems strange to see people walk on the field," Mr. Whittaker said. For years it was so carefully protected." But as trees are added and walks connecting the old campus with the new campus core run through this area, it will become more accessible to all students as a place of beauty and memory.

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

Marshall University has $6,000,000 in construction projects currently underway.

A classroom building with adjoining music building complex is nearing completion and is expected to be ready for use by the second semester. The complex will house the departments of music, art, speech, journalism, languages, history, sociology, and mathematics. Practice rooms for music students will be provided in addition to a recital hall. Underground parking will accommodate 100 vehicles.

Another project under the current building program is the enlargement of the James E. Morrow Library. When completed in the fall of 1967, the size of the facility will be tripled. This will allow more space for volumes and student research facilities.

Expansion projects about to be launched include additions and renovations to two residence halls and the construction of a twin towers residence hall with dining facilities. A new student center is also in the planning along with a new stadium. Plans are being formulated for a communications center to house the educational television station and the department of audio-visuals.

Total enrollment at Marshall University this fall exceeded 8,100. This includes students on the Huntington campus and at the two branch colleges at Logan and Williamson, West Virginia.

Several new graduate programs were added to the curriculum, including one that leads to the master's degree in business administration. Efforts continue toward obtaining a program leading to the doctorate degree in chemistry.

MEET THE

Have astronauts made pilots old hat?

Sure, the boys who go off the "pads" get the big, bold headlines. But if you want to fly, the big opportunities are still with the aircraft that take off and land on several thousand feet of runway.

Who needs pilots? TAC does. And MAC. And SAC. And ADC.

There's a real future in Air Force flying. In years to come aircraft may fly higher, faster, and further than we dare dream of. But they'll be flying, with men who've had Air Force flight training at the controls. Of course the Air Force also has plenty of jobs for those who won't be flying. As one of the world's largest and most advanced research and development organizations, we have a continuing need for scientists and engineers.

Young college graduates in these fields will find that they'll have the opportunity to do work that is both interesting and important. The fact is, nowhere will you have greater latitude or responsibility right from the start than on the Aerospace Team—the U.S. Air Force!

Student Gwendolyn Navojosky and Dr. Darrel Minifie, associate professor of education, are shown looking at one of the books designed to aid teachers in the field of special education.

SPECIAL EDUCATION GAINS POPULARITY AT BG

by

June Yantiss

University News Service

American educational progress has left the little red schoolhouse behind, and there are signs that the all-purpose teacher may experience the same fate.

Throughout the teaching profession, increasing emphasis is being placed on specialization, where efforts are concentrated on teaching specific subjects or segments of the school population.

This trend is evident at Bowling Green State University where the fastest growing field of study is appropriately called "special education."

Three years ago when Dr. Darrel G. Minifie, associate professor of education, came to Bowling Green to establish a special education program, he was the only full-time instructor. There were six special education majors.

Now there are six full-time faculty members and nearly 500 students who are being trained to teach handicapped, emotionally disturbed, slow learning, retarded and gifted children.

One reason for special education's success at Bowling Green has been the program's ability to attract state and federal support. This year more than $110,000 has been received from these sources. Dr. Minifie also cited solid backing from the College of Education and the University administration as important in the program's success.

Strong demand for special education teachers, who were the second most sought after by school systems around the nation last year, has caused the program's rapid growth. Dr. Minifie said.

He pointed out that in Ohio alone there are nearly 500,000 youngsters in need of some type of special teacher assistance which is not available in the general education program.

The demand does not mean that there are more children than ever who need special training, Dr. Minifie said, but that "teachers and parents are more aware of children who need individual assistance in their school work."

Although salaries are higher for special education teachers, most students in the program are motivated by different reasons, Dr. Minifie feels. "They seem especially interested in the results they can accomplish with the children," he said.

Gwendolyn Navojosky, a Leetonia, senior, is typical of most special education majors. "Working with mentally retarded children has been a rewarding experience," she said.

Another special education major, Mrs. Helen Lloyd, Findlay, said, "I have felt a special delight in helping a slow learning child, who once could say only a few sounds, to talk."

Former methods of teaching children in need of special attention haven't been adequate, Dr. Minifie noted. He said that until recently many teachers of slow learning children, for example, only gave them watered-down material ordinarily used with youngsters of average ability.

"These children need specially trained teachers who know proper techniques," he claimed.

And judging from the number of schools waiting for Bowling Green University's special education graduates, there are many school administrators and parents who agree.

SKETCHING THE HOME FOES

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following sketches on Bowling Green State University's four home opponents, Dayton, Kent State, Marshall and Ohio University, will provide plenty of interesting background material for Falcon fans.

DAYTON—The Flyers haven't had a winning record since the 1957 team came up with a 6-3 record but better things are in the Dayton wind as the 1965 freshman team posted a 4-1 record . . . the 1965 varsity edition compiled a 1-8-1 record and scored only 26 points as compared to 161 for the opponents . . . The Flyers got their one win over Ohio University by a 13-7 margin . . . John McVay is currently moving into his second season . . . In the last eight meetings between the two schools, Dayton has scored only 18 points . . . Bowling Green has racked up six shutouts during that space of time . . . Dayton won the first two games then BG won eight straight . . . Halfbacks Mel Taylor and Billy Mayo, who totaled 457 yards in 1965, could provide the Flyers with plenty of good outside speed this season.

KENT STATE—The Golden Flashes are Bowling Green's oldest football rival as the two schools have met 34 times with BG holding a 19-9-6 series edge . . . Bowling Green has recorded seven straight victories over Kent State and the Golden Flashes have scored only 29 points in those seven contests . . . BG won 41-0 in 1964 but had to settle for a 7-6 decision in 1965 . . . In two seasons, Coach Leo Strang has posted an 8-9-2 slate . . . Last year, the Golden Flashes were 5-4-1 . . . The entire backfield including outstanding fullback Willie Asbury, who rushed for 998 yards in 1965, graduated from last year's first winning team in five years . . . Strang hopes that Don Fitzgerald, who totaled 95 yards in '65, will replace Asbury . . . quarterback could be Jim Foxx, son of the great baseballer . . . In any case, the Golden Flashes need someone to throw the ball to great receiver Bill Blunt, who caught 30 passes for 337 yards in 1965.

MARSHALL—Football is on the upswing at Marshall University . . . Coach Charlie Snyder has a 26-40-3 record at the West Virginia school but in the past three seasons, the Thundering Herd has come up with a 17-12-1 record . . . Marshall opened with four wins last year then had to wait until the season's final game to take a 29-14 decision over Ohio University and finish at 5-5 . . . The top backs with the Thundering Herd are Andy Socha and Mickey Jackson who gained 664 and 704 yards respectively in 1965 . . . Jackson also scored 96 points last year to finish as the fourth highest scorer in the nation . . . A West Virginia boy, Jim Perry, had plenty of say about BG's 20-6 1965 win over Marshall as he kicked two field goals and two extra points for eight markers . . . BG has won 11 straight from the Herd to up the series advantage to 11-1 . . . In the past five years, Marshall has been able to score only 27 points.

OHIO UNIVERSITY—The Bobcats will be improved this year but the question remains just how far Ohio University will be able to bounce back from 1965's 0-10 mark, the poorest in the school's history . . . Fullback Wash Lyons could provide part of the answer to the question . . . He gained 835 yards in 1964 but was held to only 268 yards in 1965 after suffering two broken toes in an accident . . . Including the final game of the 1964 year, Ohio has lost 11 straight . . . to snap that streak during the first three games of the 1966 season, the Bobcats must beat either Purdue, Boston College or Kent State . . . Bill Hess, the dean of the MAC's coaches, now has a 46-30-2 record in eight years at Ohio . . . A total of 23 lettermen are back from last year's team . . . The series between Bowling Green and Ohio now stands at 10-7-1 in BG's favor . . . The Bobcats scored two shutouts in 1963 and 1964 but the Falcons won 17-7 in 1965 . . . Despite the series edge, the Bobcats have outscored the Falcons by a 235-215 margin.

The Four P's of College Football

by ARNIE BURDICK

*Sports Editor, Syracuse (N.Y.) Herald-Journal
President, Football Writers Association of America*

WHEN North-western spoiled "Hurry-Up" Yost's unbeaten Michigan season of 1925, 3-2, more than one writer inquired, "Who pitched?"

Last fall, after West Virginia out-touched Pitt, 63-48, one disbelieving editor wired back, "Get that Western Union operator off the bottle and give me the correct score!"

A great many changes have been taking place in college football over the years, and those two divergent results certainly point it up.

'Way back in the Depression Days of the '30's, money was not the only hard thing to come by. Touchdowns were mighty scarce, too. Now, they often come in bunches.

How come?

There are several theories, but most of the nation's finest football brains agree that the old "Punt-Pass-and-Prayer" era has given way to four new "P's."

"Passing, Platoons and Pictures," they say, "add up to Points!"

West Virginia and Pitt were not the only college teams busy scoring last fall. The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau reveals that a 32.1 points-per-game average was posted in major contests during 1965. That's better than two and a half touchdowns per team.

Paul (Bear) Bryant, who's been cranking out championship teams with regularity at Alabama was always known as "Mr. Defense" until recently when Joe Namath and Steve Sloan began authoring a bushelful of touchdown passes. 'Bama's 39-28 conquest of Nebraska in the last Orange Bowl game emphasizes this dramatic turn of events.

"The past couple of years," Bear feels, "we have scored a lot but haven't played much defense. Probably because we have used our best football players on offense and have had great quarterbacks.

"Two-platoon football definitely should make it a higher scoring game, since the offensive specialists should be further advanced than the defensive men most of the time."

Syracuse's Benny Schwartzwalder believes that scores have gone up "because quarterbacks have become so good. They come to us from the high schools today better prepared. There are so many good passers. They're so skilled, so accurate. And they're throwing to more skillful receivers.

"As a result they've simply opened up the game. It's sideline to sideline now, and this puts the offense ahead of the defense. You can't defend from one sideline to the other. And remember," says the veteran Orange mentor who's been reluctant to throw the ball, "excellence in the passing game helps the running game. The defense just can't crowd you . . . Films have helped us, too."

"A few years ago," observed Texas' Darrell Royal, "it was nothing unusual at all to see a tight formation with no backfield men flanked. Most all of us now are using at least one flanked receiver. Not only does this added passing and loosened-up formation give more striking power, but it also is dangerous in that the ball may be intercepted, which in turn gives up an easy touchdown. In most cases you find the better athletes playing offensively, rather than defensively. It is plain to see how this works to the advantage of the offense."

Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian feels strongly about the effect the return of platoon football has had on scoring. "The players have more time to specialize in their skills," observes Ara, "and a coach can utilize completely the individual ability of his players. And we also have more players today, due to the increase in population. The players today are bigger, stronger and faster."

Dartmouth's Bob Blackman, who has had such distinguished success in the Ivy League, thinks scores have mounted because "we have been better able to anticipate what our opponents will do on defense than on offense. Most teams will stem from one basic defense. On the other hand, it is very easy for a team on offense to run from several different formations from which they had run the previous week, and to also put in several completely new plays that they haven't shown before. Coaches also feel freer to make a change in offense than on defense, on the theory that if you make a mistake on offense, you may lose five yards, but if you make a mistake on defense it may give your opponent six points."

Ohio State's Woody Hayes, master of the "Three-Yards-and-a-Cloud-of-Dust" school recognizes "that defensive trends have taken a great deal of our offensive initiative away from us. We are no longer able to grind it out on the ground; thus the need for a passing game arises, and the increased use of the passing game has made for more scoring. Also, we have gotten more plays per game by mixing it up more which in turn gives us more opportunities to score."

Dad may have courted Mom back when a buck was a buck and when one touchdown won a ball game, but no more. "We used to think 14 points," the coaches chorused, "would win a game, but now we know we need 21. And 28 to be sure."

Sounds like a good many Western Union operators may be accused of drinking before this season is history.

ATO VICTORY BELL BECOMES BG TRADITION

Forty-eight games is a long streak but this is the exact number of Bowling Green State University football contests Alpha Tau Omega's Victory Bell, "Old Alpha," has attended.

Now this may not seem like much until you look at the records and see where the bell has gone these past five years.

For example, in 1961, the Falcons played in the Mercy Bowl in Los Angeles, California, and the bell was there. The same was true when Bowling Green traveled to Texas in 1962 to play West Texas State and then returned in 1964 and 1965 to play against North Texas State and face West Texas again. This year "Old Alpha" was in Tampa, Florida for the opening game.

"Old Alpha" has been rung by ATO members following every Falcon touchdown and conversion since the opening game of the 1961 season. The bell has had a lot of tolling to do as BG has compiled a 39-8-1 record during this period of time and scored almost 1000 points. Over this period of time the bell has traveled 20,500 miles. The longest trip was 2,500 miles to the Mercy Bowl in Los Angeles.

The bell is taken to games by a trailer pulled behind a car. Pulling the bell is no small task as it weighs 1,260 pounds. The 1960 ATO pledge class had a special trailer built to support the bell.

Funds for taking "Old Alpha" to all the away games are donated by various sources. For the long trips, most of the necessary funds have come from local merchants. For all MAC games, the fraternity pays expenses. This year's bell chairman, Michael Snyder, estimates that travel costs and repair will run the fraternity about $500.

Time after time during and since his inauguration, Bowling Green's President Jerome has stated that the school needs more traditions. The ATO's victory bell is doing its part.

MEET THE FALCONS

1. MIKE WEGER (35)—6-2, 200—Weger saw two-way action last season as he became Bowling Green State University's first major college All-American. The Associated Press named him to its second team defensive backfield in 1965. This year, Weger is again seeing two-way action as he is starting at both offensive and defensive halfback. After the Falcons first five games, Weger had rushed for 209 yards in 36 carries for a 5.8 average while also intercepting one pass while playing defense. In three years, he has now intercepted six passes and returned them 63 yards. Last year, he rushed for 219 yards for a 4.7 average while also catching four passes for 86 yards. Weger was named as last season's Most Valuable Player and was also elected as this year's captain. He also landed a first string position on the All Mid-American Conference team in 1965. At Bowling Green High School, Weger had a fine athletic career.

2. STEW WILLIAMS (47)—6-1, 230—Let's make no bones about it, old No. 47 will be missed next season. Williams, a two-year letterman and a two-time All Mid-American Conference selection, will go down in the record books as one of the finest fullbacks in Bowling Green's history. In three years with the Falcons, he has scored 60 points and has rushed for 1,650 yards. Only two players in Bowling Green's MAC history, Vic DeOrio and Bob Ramlow, have gained more yardage in a MAC season than Williams. As a sophomore, he rushed for 401 yards against MAC opponents then came up with 422 last campaign. Williams missed this year's Kent State game with a knee injury but he totaled 115 yards against Western Michigan and Toledo. Williams won all kinds of honors at Sandusky High School, including being named to the All-American team. With the Blue Streaks, he netted 3,059 yards in 421 carries for a 7.3 average in three years while scoring 260 points against the best in the state.

3. HENRY ORR (78)—6-2, 230—Orr lettered with the Falcons last year as he started at defensive tackle. He has been seeing plenty of action at that position again this season because of his determination, hard work and desire. Orr has good speed at the defensive tackle slot and has done a fine job in Bowling Green's weight program. He has turned in some good play with the 1966 Falcons and got his season off on the right foot as he intercepted a pass in the opener at the University of Tampa. Orr captained both the football and basketball squads at Youngstown South High School while earning All-City honors on the gridiron and taking honorable mention All-City recognition as a basketball player. At Bowling Green, Orr is enrolled in the college of education.

4. RUSS JACQUES (13)—5-9, 170—Jacques, the only letterman Bowling Green has at quarterback, is the Falcons' No. 1 signal caller this season. In the Falcons first five games, he had completed 19 of 48 passes for 233 yards and has had only one pass intercepted. After Joe Siesel was injured, he also took over Bowling Green's punting chores and has done a creditable job, kicking 13 times for a 31.8 average. Jacques is a fine leader who is a good rollout passer and a quarterback who runs the option play well. Last year, Jacques completed seven of 15 passes for 61 yards while also scoring one touchdown. He started to move into the first string position at the end of the 1965 year. At Parma High School, Jacques was an All Lake Erie League choice and was named to the third team All-State squad. He was also an All-Leaguer in both basketball and baseball. He pitched for the 1965 BG baseball team and lettered.

5. JIM POROWSKI (60)—5-11, 210—Porowski has been Bowling Green's starting middle guard for the past two seasons and he is holding down that position again this year. At times, he has been outstanding for the Falcons as he has the quickness and good speed to be a fine middle guard. Porowski lacks the outstanding size but he makes up for it by playing an intelligent game. With the Cleveland Benedictine High School Bengals, Porowski ran up a string of honors including All-Ohio, All East Senate and All-Scholastic. Under Coach August Bossu, Porowski lettered for three years as a tackle while also lettering in track and with the wrestling squad. At Bowling Green, he is enrolled in the college of liberal arts.

FALCONS EYE FINE 1966-67 BASKETBALL SEASON

Bowling Green's Coach Warren Scholler

With a fine group of veterans back from the 1965-66 squad, plus four good transfer students and some promising sophomores, Bowling Green State University's basketball prospects look bright for the 1966-67 campaign.

Warren Scholler moves into his fourth season as the Falcons' head coach with a 32-39 record. Against some of the fine teams in the country, Bowling Green compiled a 9-15 overall mark while finishing at 6-6 in the Mid-American Conference during the 1965-66 year.

This season, Scholler is working with seven letter winners, including Walt Piatkowski, from Toledo, who led the Mid-American in scoring last year with an 18.9 average.

Walt Piatkowski

The other veterans are Carl Assenheimer, Tiffin, Ed Behm, Franklinville, N.J., Al Dixon, Toledo, Rich Hendrix, Cincinnati, Dan Rinicella, Euclid, and Ted Rose, Columbus.

Piatkowski, Dixon and Hendrix figure to set the pace for the 1966-67 Falcons. Piatkowski led last year's team in scoring with an 18.4 average while Hendrix and Dixon showed 10.5 and 7.1 marks respectively. Dixon also paced Bowling Green's rebounding efforts with an 11.0 average.

This season's top sophomores figure to be Dick Rudgers and Sid Rodeheffer, a pair of guards, and forward Mark Hoffman. Rudgers paced the 1965-66 freshman team in scoring with a 19.5 mark while Hoffman and Rodeheffer finished at 14.2 and 13.5.

Four transfer students, Al Hairston, from Port Huron Junior College, Joe Henderson, from Allan Hancock Junior College, Phil Benedict, from Duke University, and John Compton, from Tennessee State University, are also battling for positions on this year's team.

Hairston, a 6-1 guard, should give the Falcons some needed speed while Henderson, a 6-5 forward who averaged 15 points a game and 14 rebounds at Hancock, should give BG some scoring punch at forward. Benedict, a 6-10 center, and Compton, a 6-2 guard, also figure high in Bowling Green's plans.

Through graduation and ineligibility, Bowling Green lost three front-line players off the 1965-66 squad. Guard Nick Aloï, who averaged 11.8 points a game, center Bob Van Poppel and forward Sam Mims, have all departed.

The 19 players who reported for the opening drills include: the seven lettermen plus Benedict, from Britton, Mich., Compton, Cincinnati, Gary Cortner, Columbus, Ind., Rick Fowler, Hamilton, Hairston, Mt. Clemens, Mich., John Heft, Columbus, Henderson, Detroit, Mich., Mark Hoffman, Bellevue, Tom Ihnat, Columbus, Richard MacAulay, Youngstown, Rodeheffer, Bowling Green and Rudgers, Akron.
